ONLY THE PREPARED WILL

SurThrive

A changing economy can be overwhelming. But when you're prepared for it, not only can you survive it, you can thrive in it. That's why people across the state are sitting down with a Northrim banker. Our experts know the keys to SurThrive – especially in Alaska's economy – and they're equipped with the tools and knowledge to prepare you for the challenges and opportunities along the path ahead.

Prepare to SurThrive at

40 years invested in Alaska

Prudhoe Bay

BP began production in Prudhoe Bay 40 years ago. Today, as a result of continued investment, we're exceeding initial output projections and are producing 55% of Alaska's oil.

NANA

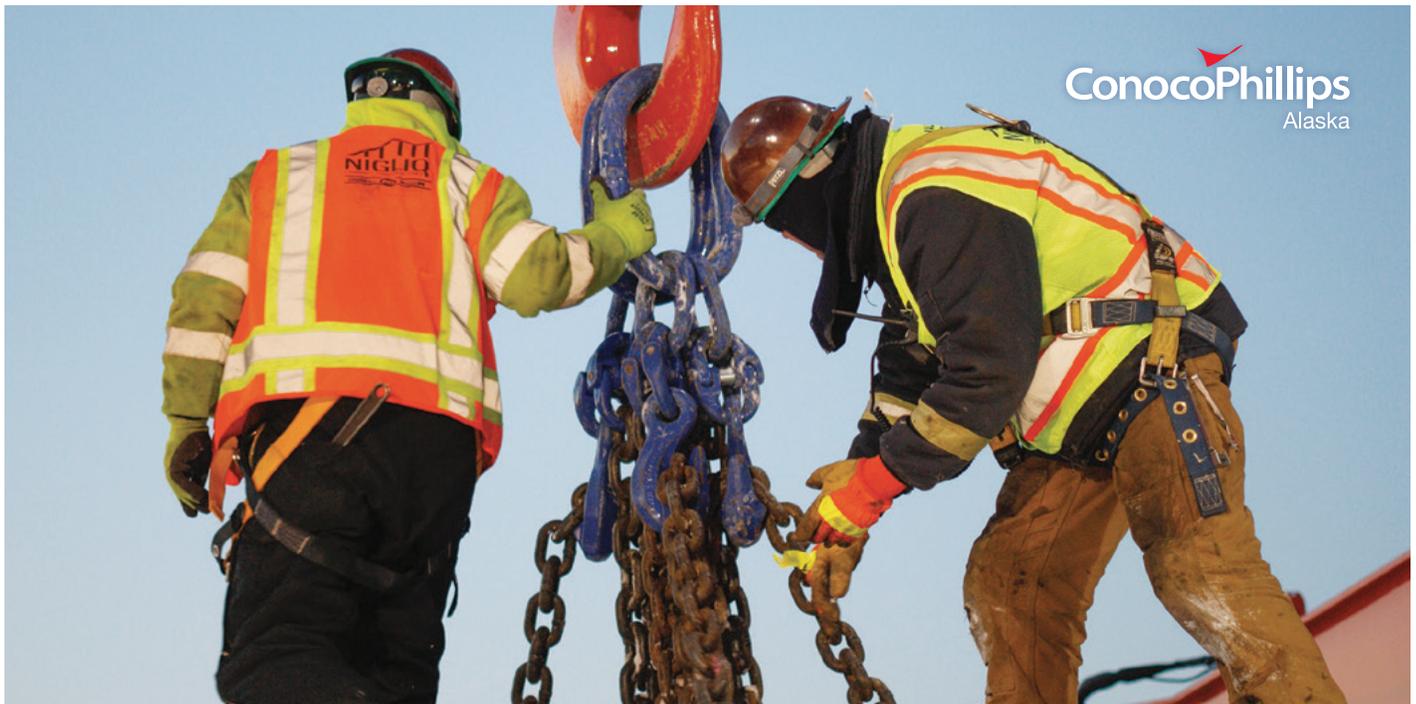

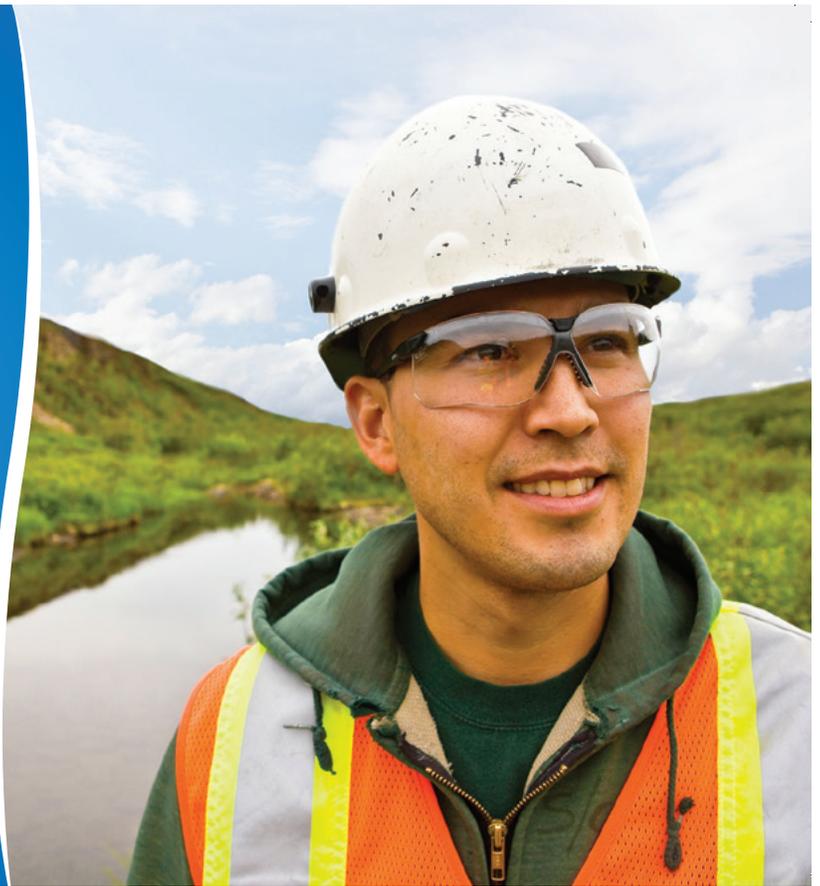

A Culture of Commitment

Northwest Alaska's Iñupiaq were the first people to manage the responsible development of NANA's lands – 10,000 years later we're still doing that as active partners, participants and stewards. NANA stands as a model of consensus, cooperation and mutual respect between a mining company and indigenous people.

Let's develop Alaska's potential together.

ConocoPhillips
Alaska

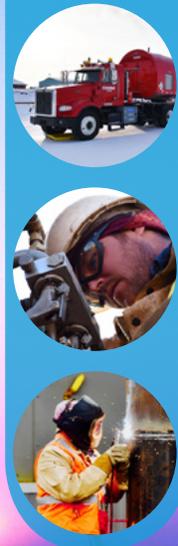

Unlocking Alaska's Energy Resources

ConocoPhillips is optimistic about Alaska. With active development in the NPR-A, five exploration wells and a seismic program planned for this winter, ConocoPhillips is investing today for Alaska's future.

UNDERGROUND HEROES

Nestled in the Alaska wilderness, Pogo Mine is home to many natural resources including gold and wildlife. Through a culture of responsibility, personal accountability, everyday environmental monitoring, and the management of over 50 permits, Pogo's Underground Heroes are key to minimizing Pogo's impact to the environment.
