Putting ALASKANS to work

Alaska's North Slope is experiencing a renaissance.

During this past winter's drilling season on the North Slope, we employed over 1,100 people to drill eight exploration wells, build 140 miles of ice roads and start construction of a new drill site.

And we're not stopping there. We'll have a new drilling rig – the largest land-based rig in North America -- on the Slope in 2020, and plans to invest billions in projects that will put more oil in the pipeline and keep Alaskans working.
